

(Editor's Note: The famous Brass Ring, good for one free ride on The Washington Merry-Go-Round, this week is presented to Senator Henry Fountain Ashurst of Arizona, in charge of Roosevelt's judiciary fight in the Senate)

Washington—Out of the tension and turbulence of the Senate Supreme Court hearings emerges one central figure, unflinching, unharmed, and unabashed that at heart he has no enthusiasm for the Roosevelt judiciary plan.

He is Henry Fountain Ashurst, first Senator from Arizona, chief punctuator of senatorial stuffed shirts, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, and a man whose philosophy of public office he has expressed like this:

"In the Senate you are on roller skates. You go partly where you like to go and partly where the skates take you."

The Ashurst skates are now taking him out to do battle for the President on the field of judicial reform, and Henry Fountain is fighting just as hard as if he had initiated the battle himself.

Old Warrior

This is not a new name to the Senator from Arizona. In an emergency he can always turn on the fire and feeling. During the floor-fight on Boulder Dam, Ashurst was in the vanguard of the attack, waged a furious filibuster against the bill. Privately he did not care a snap of his finger about Boulder Dam. But his state was against it. So he got as lathered up as the spotted pinto he used to ride over the deserts of Arizona.

He even hinted that dark and mysterious violence might be wreaked upon those who favored Boulder Dam.

On another occasion, South Carolina's eccentric Cole Blaise was denouncing Woodrow Wilson. Democratic Senators writhed at the attack, but none cared to tangle with the vitriolic Cole. Suddenly Ashurst got the floor, remarked:

"I want to observe for the benefit of the Senator from South Carolina that when Prometheus was bound to a rock, it was a buzzard that ate his liver, not an eagle."

Desert Lawyer

Ashurst has served continuously in the Senate for 25 years. Only Senator Borah and Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith, of South Carolina, outrank him.

Born in Nevada in 1874, he migrated with his parents by covered wagon to Arizona, where they staked out a small ranch near the town of Williams. There young Ashurst rode range, later went to school in California and the University of Michigan.

Ashurst says that in those pioneer days the only requirement for admission to the bar was to be able to "stand up to it and drink it straight." So while still a youth and without formal legal training, he became a lawyer.

He soon got into politics, was elected county attorney, and initiated the innovation of prosecuting cattle rustlers instead of allowing posses of irate ranchers to hang them, as the practice was under Ashurst's predecessors.

When Arizona became a State in 1912, Ashurst was a member of the territorial legislature. He entered a large field of candidates for the Senate, got the second largest number of votes, came to the capital as junior Senator.

Peerless Wit

While he is not a headline figure, no one in Washington outranks Ashurst in charm, wit and candor. He is one of the most lovable, amusing and outspoken men in public life. There is no atom of the stuffed shirt about him throughout his six-foot-two of muscular anatomy. He takes nothing seriously—last and least of all himself.

"No senator can change his mind quicker than I," he laughs.

He was elected as a Dry, but voted for 32 per cent beer, posed for news photographers quaffing a big tankard of suds.

In his campaign of 1934 he plumped for the Townsend plan, yet has not lifted a finger for it since.

Perhaps his most bizarre performance was on the bonus. He electioneered as a bonus supporter, but of the four votes he cast on the question, two were for the bonus and two against.

At least, he remarks disarmingly, "I was 50 per cent right."

Only a few weeks ago Ashurst was busy denouncing suggestions of pack the court. Instead he urged a constitutional amendment giving Congress freedom to enact economic and social welfare measures. In 1935 he was against any tampering with the courts or the Constitution.

But today he is for the President's proposal. When this was announced, he received a wire, saying:

SOCIALISTS SAY FASCISTS PUSH HALTED

Madrid Purges Its Crannies of Rebel Spies

Madrid, March 13.—(AP)—Government troops, supported by planes which dropped 492 bombs on insurgent positions, drove enemy concentrations from strategic Trijueque, 12 miles north of Guadalajara, the Madrid defense junta reported today.

One complete artillery battery was seized in the government counter-attack, commanders asserted.

The onslaught interrupted consolidating activities by the insurgents two hours after the advance guard of Generalissimo Francisco Franco marched into the town, the government reports said.

The militiamen rained 200,000 machine gun and rifle bullets on insurgent concentrations to achieve what Gen. Jose Miaja, junta commander, declared was a "slowing up" of the massed threat against Madrid's northeastern defenses.

Twenty-three insurgent tanks were reported destroyed by squads of government bomb throwers.

Francisco Franco's major drive to break Madrid's northeastern defenses has spent much of its strength, the government declared, and Madrid's militiamen have been enabled to take the offensive.

The capital's war-weary soldiers, however, faced one of the most grim week-ends of the war on the bloody Guadalajara front, about 44 miles from the city.

Roads Quagmires

Snow, sleet and rain turned roads along the main Aragon-Madrid highway into quagmires, impeding the mechanized thrusts of the insurgent army, officers reported.

Minor engagements were reported on Madrid's southeastern front, in the Jarama river valley, but the deadlock there was unbroken.

Nearly a week of hammering attack by what the government described as an army of 30,000 Italians, including units of artillery, mobile machine gunners, tanks, planes and waves of infantry, failed to carry the major insurgent drive nearer than 44 miles from Madrid, it was said.

Strongly reinforced government positions held the insurgents at bay on a line bisecting the Aragon-Madrid highway at Trijueque, 12 miles northeast of the city of Guadalajara, officers reported.

Officials, meanwhile, purged Madrid's population of what they termed a "fifth column" bent upon sabotaging the capital's defenses by assassinations, kidnappings and other subversive activities.

The "fifth column" possessed "veritable arsenals" and planned the abduction of Gen. Jose Miaja.

Odds too Great

New York, March 13.—(AP)—A bite of life prematurely met to Mr. and Mrs. Max Post Thursday failed to overcome overwhelming odds, and died today in an incubator at a fashionable midtown hospital.

Weighing only 15½ ounces and so tiny she could be held in the palm of the hand, the girl was fed milk with a medicine dropper.

About two and a half months premature, the baby was the daughter of a WPA worker.

Eichler Bros. and Kathryn Beard Presentations Helped Make Style Show Success; Names Omitted

Two Dixon stores, whose names were inadvertently omitted in a recent article on the successful fashion show at the Dixon theatre, Thursday, entered models with lovely Easter apparel.

For the Eichler Bros., who presented an outdoor scene, the first model to appear wore a tan flannel suit, cellosheen, perspiration-proof lined. Her accessories were a tan felt hat, brown kid gloves and gloveskin purse. The second model wore a French blue mantled suit with a nubby fleece mixture coat, navy felt hat and carried a patent leather trimmed gabardine pure in navy and navy kid gloves.

The little girl model wore a

Same Place

Katonah, N. Y., March 13.—(AP)—Three gunmen who apparently gambled on a banker's belief that lightning seldom strikes twice in the same place left a slender clue today for peace officers trying to solve the $18,500 holdup of the Northern Westchester bank.

A second car they commandeered after they had disabled their first one in their flight from Katonah was found wrecked in Bridgeport, Conn. The robbery of the bank yesterday was the second within 15 days. In the previous holdup Merle Vandenberg, notorious jailbreaker and bank robber, was seized with two confederates by police.

DEKALB STRIKE REACHES TRUCE

Rochelle Plant Closed Due to Workers' Dissatisfaction

DeKalb, Ill., March 13.—(AP)—A truce was declared today in a strike which halted operations of the Marquardt Company. E. H. Thierfelder plant superintendent, said work would be resumed Monday pending further negotiations. The plant was closed yesterday morning.

Meanwhile at Sycamore, DeKalb county seat, striking workers continued to picket the Turner brass works, closed a week by failure of its 225 non-union employees to work until wage and hour demands were met. At a meeting last night it was indicated the workers would affiliate with an undesignated union.

The 125 factory workers of the Marquardt Company, manufacturer of mattresses and bed springs, decided at an early morning conference to consider formation of a company union instead of affiliation with the American Federation of Labor as decided Thursday night.

A meeting with company officials will be held Monday night, at which time demands for wage scales and maximum working hours were discussed.

Rochelle Plant Closed

The Caron Spinning Company of Rochelle, employing 450, was closed indefinitely. O. J. Caron said there were no labor difficulties, but intimated resumption of operations hinged upon the outcome of rumored dissatisfaction among employees.

The ranks of sit-down strikers at the Aurora cotton mill were thinned when a large group of married women returned to household duties. Union recognition was sought by the estimated 200 on strike.

Thirty striking employees of the Illinois Watch Case Company engaged in a melee with two foremen in the first disorder since the strike was called several weeks ago. Another settlement conference was set for Monday. About 700 of the company's 900 workers are on strike for higher wages and improved working conditions.

Sanute Case Held Until Next Monday

Somerset, Pa., March 13.—(AP)—Supreme Court Justice George W. Maxey withheld from the jury until next Monday the case of State Policeman Anthony Sanute, charged with beating a prisoner to death during a third degree.

The justice told the jurors today he had not finished writing his charge to them but would complete his address over the week end.

Sanute was the second of seven peace officers to be tried on a charge of beating to death 64-year old Frank C. Monaghan in a third degree. His fellow trooper, Stacy Gunderman, was convicted two weeks ago of second degree murder.

OUTLOOK FOR WEEK

Chicago, March 13.—(AP)—Weather outlook for the period March 15 to 20:

For the region of the Great Lakes: Generally fair first of week, some precipitation latter part; temperature mostly below normal.

For the upper Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys: Considerable precipitation likely, except generally fair north portion first of week; temperature mostly below normal.

For the northern and central Great Plains: Considerable precipitation likely south portion and some in north portion; temperature mostly near or below normal.

Sunday—Sun rises at 6:15; sets at 6:05.
Monday—Sun rises at 6:13; sets at 6:05.

UNION LABOR COUNTS GAIN IN THE WEEK

Final Agreement in G. M. C. Strike is Reached Today

By The Associated Press

Industrial union enthusiasts counted one big gain in the automotive industry today and pressed campaigns in other fields.

Final agreement in the General Motors strike, affecting 135,000 employees, brought wage, hour and other concessions to an affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization, but did not achieve the national minimum hourly wage nor 30-hour week goals. Ratification by union locals was withheld temporarily.

To the Wayne county court at Detroit was transferred temporarily the controversy between the United Automobile Workers, a CIO unit, and the Chrysler Corporation. Arguments in the corporation's plea for legal ouster of 5,000 sit-downers from its plants jammed the courtroom and brought a picket line to the building itself. The court deferred decision until Monday.

On the steel front, the Blaw-Knox Company and four subsidiaries announced signing of a union contract granting its 3,000 workers a 40 hour week, $5 daily minimum wage and bargaining recognition.

To Resume Parley

Philip Murray, CIO leader, and Benjamin F. Fairless of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, agreed to resume their conferences Monday.

Twenty policemen armed with machine guns patrolled a Memphis furniture manufacturing company plant after rejection of demands for ten per cent wage increase and shorter hours for 450 striking employees.

A strike of printers on the Miami, Fla., Daily News ended after a one-day suspension of publication.

In Chicago 18 strikers involved an estimated 9,000 workers despite the return after a two day sit-down of 1,800 employees of the Chicago Mail Order Company, which granted a ten per cent wage boost.

Chrysler's move came on the heels of an announcement that the U. A. W. and the General Motors Corp. had composed differences arising from the G. M. C. strike which ended Feb. 11.

"Grievance Procedure"

The pact, yet to be ratified by representatives of local unions, provided for seniority rights and other concessions but did not include union demands for a national minimum hourly wage and a 30-hour week. It arranged for a "grievance procedure" under

Street Improvements to Be Made By City During Year Outlined to Council

Most of Work Will Be On Streets in the North Side

An outline of a program of street improvement in Dixon during the coming summer months was presented to the city council last evening, and met with the unanimous approval of all members of the commission. But one project is booked for the south side, the major part of the program providing for the improvement of north side streets east of Galena avenue. The program:

Madison to Galena avenues on First street, to be treated to a coating of sheet asphalt at estimated cost of $8,000, work to be done by contract and paid for out of city's motor fuel tax refund from state.

East McKinney street from North Galena avenue to North Jefferson avenue to be designated as an arterial street.

East Chamberlain street, from North Galena avenue, east to city limits, to become an arterial street.

East Fellows street from North Galena avenue, east to city limits, abandoned as an arterial street, also section on Assembly Place from Fellows, north to Chamberlain street, all of which is paved.

Work By Contract

East Chamberlain street from North Galena avenue to the east city limits to be graded and treated with road oil this summer, preparatory to being improved possibly next year, at a cost of $7,000, the work to be by contract and to be paid for out of motor fuel tax refund to city.

East Boyd and East McKinney streets from North Galena to North Jefferson avenues and on North Jefferson avenue from Boys to Fellows streets, to be improved by the expenditure of $7,000 motor fuel tax funds, work to be done by contract.

Mayor W. V. Slothower told the commission that Everett street, it had been agreed by the commission members, would be improved by the street department during the summer months, and briefly, at the request of Commissioner Valle, explained the program of street improvement decided upon.

W. H. Hafziger, of this city, representative of the Portland Cement Association, expressed opposition to the proposed improvement of First street with a black top substance and preferred a permanently improved street of concrete construction. The present plan, he stated, was only a temporary repair and cited other cities in this section where similar plans are being abandoned.

Against Assessment

Mayor Slothower replied that he did not favor burdening business with a special assessment, when every effort is being made to restore business conditions and employment. He added that the council was ready to consider petitions for such an improvement as suggested by the cement representative, but he said that in conferring with several business heads, he had been given their expressions of satisfaction with the proposed program to be paid for out of the gasoline tax refund from the state. Mayor Slothower estimated that the repair of First street would serve traffic for about ten years, and cited the block on Hennepin avenue between First and Second as an example.

When the time comes to improve Galena avenue, Mayor Slothower said, he would be in favor of concrete construction, which was also approved by the state department of highways. Mr. Hafziger suggested that the resolution covering the First street improvement be changed to provide for the insertion of an alternative clause which would provide for cement paving.

Police Lenient

Commissioner Cal G. Tyler informed the council that at the end of the season of slippery streets, the police department, which had been very lenient during the winter, had been instructed to enforce traffic ordinances, and requested the co-operation of all motorists of the city in making this drive a success.

Mayor Slothower added his comment to the automobile traffic ordinance in the city, and said:

"When this council assumed office, one of the first things to be accomplished was the one hour parking ordinance which was the subject of no end of objections. At that time, however we requested that all merchants, professional men and their clerks desist from

FAME LIVES

Pioneer in Electricity Died Today at Age of 83 Years

ASSOCIATED PRESS (UNDERWOOD) ELIHU THOMPSON

Swampscott, Mass., March 13.—(AP)—Dr. Elihu Thompson, world-famous scientist and pioneer in electricity, holder of 700 patents, died at his home today.

The 83-year-old English-born inventor, originator of electric arc welding, had been ill since January. Contemporary and friend of Thomas Edison, he had lived in America since his parents came to Philadelphia when he was five years old.

His inventions ranged from the type of electric current measuring meter, found in millions of homes, to electric motors, lightning arresters, transformers and even a cream separator.

In 1875, many years before wireless was conceived and 10 years before Hertz of Germany announced discovery of the electromagnetic waves now used in radio transmission, Thompson demonstrated in Philadelphia a method of electrical transmission of signals without wires.

Only a few years ago he co-operated in building the huge 17-foot quartz reflector for the world's greatest telescope.

Ladies Night to Be Observed By Farmers' Class

Ladies Night will be observed at the Farmers' Evening class in Dixon high school Monday evening. John N. Weiss, director of the discussion group said this morning.

At the Monday night class, for the special benefit of the ladies, a special door prize will be awarded, in addition to the regular prize donated once each week by a Dixon merchant. The subject for discussion will be "Feeding and Care of Baby Chicks" of special interest to women.

Mr. Weiss emphasized today that an especially good attendance at the Tuesday night bookkeeping class is also desired as the class is now balancing the books for a year's business.

At last week's farm class, Monday night the prize offered by H. V. Massey of the Ace Hardware Store, was awarded to Roy Scholl.

Dixon Chamber of Commerce and Manufacturers to Fight Increase in Freight Rate on Coal Tonnage

A proposed increase of the freight rate on coal coming into Dixon will be vigorously opposed by the Dixon Chamber of Commerce, local industries and independent coal dealers. It became known today. Schedules have been filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission by Illinois carriers, effective June 1 of this year, seeking to change rates on coal from Illinois mines to Dixon, Rockford, Freeport and other cities in this section.

The Reynolds Wire Co., Medusa Cement Co. and Berden Co. manufacturing interests were said to be preparing strong opposition to the measure and independent dealers were also planning to wage a battle against the proposed increase. As an example of the present rate, it was explained by one manufacturer today that on southern Illinois screenings, now costing $1.35 per

Sixth Day

Joliet, Ill., March 13.—(AP)—Frank Peterlin began the sixth day of his "sit down" strike in a mired automobile today while his attorney, Walter O. Herschbach, planned another conference with Street Commissioner Sam Shepley. Peterlin shaved yesterday and took a bath in the car in which he has pledged to remain until the city improves the street in front of his home. Herschbach said today Shepley assured him "something will be done," probably Monday, about the street.

BELoved DOCTOR BURIED FRIDAY

Many Friends Attend Rites From Other Communities

The funeral of Dr. Samuel W. Lehman, who died suddenly at his office Tuesday morning, was held at his late home, 112 Dement avenue, Friday afternoon, Rev. Geo. Stebbins of Carpentersville, former pastor of the West Side Congregational church in Dixon, officiating, and with burial in Oakwood cemetery, where the beloved physician's body was tenderly laid to rest by the pall bearers: Dr. J. H. Kennedy, Clark Rickard, Robert Warner, George B. Shaw, Joseph Staples and Frank Buckley.

The following were here from out of town to pay their tribute to the doctor: Rev. and Mrs. Lewis J. Lehman and Dr. Mrs. Wm. Troxel of South Bend, Ind.; E. E. White and Miss Bernice Margaret Hurst, Angleton, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jeffreys and Mrs. H. N. Peterson, Carpentersville, Ill.; Miss Emma K. Lehman, Culm, Ill.; Mrs. John Wagner and sons Keefer and John, and Mrs. Imnell of Sterling; Mrs. Ella Shearer of Steward; Miss Carrie E. Kingsley of Chicago; Mrs. J. Kent Greene of Evanston; Mrs. A. W. Miller of Indianapolis, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Clover, Peoria; Mrs. Chester A. and Miss Evelyn Todd of Oak Park, Ill.; Dr. and Mrs. MacDonald of Mendota.

Better Food Being Given State Wards

Urbana, Ill., March 13.—(AP)—Better and more expensive food is being given wards of the state, according to Mrs. Christine Pensinger, food and textile adviser for the state department of public welfare.

She spoke to more than 100 delegates holding their annual state meeting at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

"It requires $170 today to purchase the same quantity of food which $1 would buy in 1933," she said, "but even with the increased cost the wards of the state are being fed a more adequate diet than they were four years ago."

Mrs. Pensinger reported more than 60,000,000 meals were served to 56,000 inmates and employees of 27 state institutions in 1936 at a cost of $3,500,000.

Joined Debtor

Rockford, Ill., March 13.—(AP)—Britton van Kuren, who agreed to pay the sheriff $1 a day to keep Clifford Whitford in jail, found himself there today—and off the relief rolls.

Van Kuren invoked a $100 tort judgment sending Whitford to a debtor's cell and when relief authorities discovered that it cost him $1 a day they decided he didn't need further relief aid. Then his divorced wife caused his arrest on a charge of failing to support their three children.

PREDICT ATTACKS

Geneva, March 13.—(AP)—The Spanish government, declaring regular units of the Italian army were fighting against it, charged today in a scathing note to the League of Nations that Italian and German warships in the new European neutrality patrol "will attack Barcelona and Valencia under pretext of guarding the coast."

Society Leader Found Suicide in Philadelphia Home

Philadelphia, March 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Hale Holden, Jr., sports woman and society leader who returned from Florida Thursday, was found dead at her home in suburban Haverford yesterday, hanging from a noose made from the belt of a dress.

Coroner Winslow J. Rushong of Montgomery county today reported the death as suicide.

Holden, vice president of the Pullman company, said his wife had been happy and appeared in excellent health.

WARSHIPS TO STOP INFLUX OF SUPPLIES

Land Boundaries To Be Placed Under Guard Soon

London, March 13.—(AP)—The warships of four great powers—Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany—today began taking over "beats" to police the coasts of war-scarred Spain and put teeth in the 27-nation neutrality agreement.

Further vital steps, supplementing the naval cordon, remained to be taken, however, before the "hands off Spain" lines could be drawn tightly about the civil war.

Three newly-appointed supervisors of the international blockade, chosen as the neutrality committee ended months of bickering over details and principles, planned to meet in London Monday to complete plans.

They must provide for recruiting of frontier agents to be stationed on the French and Portuguese borders of Spain, a task committee members believed would require at least a week.

Each of the 27 participating nations also must pass legislation or promulgate decrees requiring its ships to comply with orders of the international naval patrol. Then, the committee hoped, the flow of munitions and volunteers to Spain would be halted.

In Charge of Dutch

The non-intervention committee chose Admiral M. H. Van Dulm, former commander of the Dutch East Indies fleet, to direct the neutrality program, and put Admiral J. S. C. Oliver, former Dutch squadron commander, in charge of the naval patrol and Col. Christian Lunn, of Denmark, in charge of the frontier guard.

Since the committee meeting apparently was harmonious, observers believed the negotiators did not consider the Valencia government's charges that thousands of Italian volunteers have reached insurgent territory since the committee ban nominally became effective Feb. 20.

To spur the vigilance of the naval patrol, the committee assigned Italy and Germany to guard the coast of government territory and France and Great Britain to watch the Fascist shoreline.

Control Ports

Committee regulations set up a system of control ports where shipping bound for Spain will be required to halt for inspection. Committee agents either will certify that no arms or volunteers are aboard or will accompany the vessels to Spain.

Violations of the neutrality rules will be reported to the government of the suspected violator, on the basis that the violator will be disobeying regulations of his own country cooperating in the international program.

The blockade plan, a compromise worked out after both the Spanish government and the insurgents refused to permit neutral foreign observers within their territory, had no parallel in international cooperation to halt a war, diplomats said.

Spurred to action after the Spanish war threatened to spread to other parts of Europe, the committee hoped to keep the conflict within Spain's frontiers and to choke off foreign supplies and volunteers that might prolong the bitter warfare.

PITTMAN FAVORS FIFTEEN JUDGES

Roosevelt Wants 15 Only In Event Elders Won't Quit

Washington, March 13—(AP)—Senator Pittman (D-Nev.), a Judiciary committee member supporting the Roosevelt court bill, proposed today that the suggested increase in the size of the Supreme Court be unconditional and permanent.

His proposal, the first from an administration leader for a change in the president's bill, would enlarge the tribunal to 15 members even if justices over 70 retire.

Mr. Roosevelt recommended an increase only in the event older justices remained on the bench.

Pittman said if his amendment to the bill were approved, he would offer a constitutional amendment to prevent the CSout from being enlarged beyond 15 members.

The Pittman suggestion was advanced as the Judiciary committee took a week-end recess in the hearings on the Court bill. Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) will open opposition testimony Monday.

Pittman, discussing his proposal, said: "I have no desire to induce the present judges to retire. In fact I would like to have the new members of the Court have the benefit of the arguments and opinions of the present justices."

"The Court ought to be increased to at least 15 members," the senator said. "There are three reasons:

"First, it would bring into the Court new blood—men who are mentally free and not bound by and confused by prior precedents they may have established themselves."

"Second, it would relieve a psychological situation that exists in the Court by reason of long disputes based on differences of opinion as to policies."

"Third, it is evident from the facts presented by the attorney general that nine members can not possibly read all the briefs and records submitted to the Court, and these should be read even where the Court refuses to hear cases."

Belgian Consul Is Acquitted Of Disorderly Acts

Mobile, Ala., March 13—(AP)—Belgian Consul A. J. Tellier was acquitted today of disorderly conduct charges arising out of his opposition to a city sewerage tax.

Unsuccessful opposition to the efforts of officers to shut off the water to his home caused his arrest Wednesday.

Recorder D. H. Edington discharged Tellier after detective Lawrence Arras, who with officer Denry Lynch made the arrest, testified the consul "had not acted disorderly."

Arras said the consul merely stood on his water meter and pushed detective Lynch off the lawn.

Income Tax Return Deadline Is Today

Washington, March 13—(AP)—If you haven't already done so, you'd better fill out your income tax return today.

With the deadline for filing returns midnight Monday, revenue officials said the bulk of tax payments is still to come.

Failure to file by the deadline entails penalties ranging from 5 to 25 per cent of the tax and interest at the rate of 6 per cent.

The original 5 per cent penalty is for delay up to 30 days. This increases at the rate of 5 per cent a month up to the 25 per cent minimum.

Man, 124 Declares He's Fit For War

London, March 13—(AP)—Michael Moore, who says he is 124 years old, had a job today in a blackpool sideshew.

Moore's government pension recently was increased by the Manchester relief committee because of his unusual age, and the resulting publicity brought him the new job.

"I'm in excellent fighting trim," boasted ancient Michael, "and I'm willing to go to war should the occasion arise."

Mollison Asks Amy For Divorce

London, March 13—(AP)—Capt. James A. Mollison, Australian long distance flier, said today he had asked his wife, Amy Johnson Mollison, for a divorce.

"There is no ill feeling," he said. "We are just going our own ways."

The Mollisons—both noted fliers—were married in London July 29, 1932. They announced last October they would separate.

which plants would be operated pending adjudication of future disputes.

Sit-down strikes arising from the U. A. W. A. demand for exclusive bargaining rights kept the Hudson Motor Company plants at Detroit and the Reo Motor Car Company plants at Lansing, Mich., closed.

Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan, to whom went much of the credit for settling the General Motors strike, discussed the Chrysler controversy at a conference with Detroit labor leaders and said "the general industrial conflict" was "serious and unfortunate."

Trade Improved The Associated Press index of industrial activity showed a sharp drop in automobile output last week but despite widespread strikes, industrial activity reached its highest point since November, 1929.

The impasse in the dispute at the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, O., persisted, keeping 11,500 workers idle. Strike leaders planned to push their fight for union recognition as sole bargaining agent through a seven-man strategy board.

Chicago, the nation's second largest city, was plagued with sit-down strikes and walkouts. Two non-strikers were injured and an oil-soaked cab was burned in clashes with striking taxicab drivers, who were among more than 9,000 persons idle in the city's labor troubles.

Wage Increased Four chemical plants at Charleston, W. Va., announced 10 per cent wage increases for approximately 7,500 employees. Twenty-five Committee for Industrial Organization field men said the pay boost would not affect their plans to unionize the employees of E. I. DuPont de Nemours Co., the Electro-Metallurgical Co., Carbide & Carbon Corp., and Westvaco Chlorine Products Co.

Numerous other firms announced wage increases. They included Caterpillar Tractor Co., Peoria, Ill., 11-500 factory and office workers; Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and Allegheny Steel Co., 30,000 salaried workers and skilled and semi-skilled laborers; Bendix Products Corp., South Bend, Ind., 4,000 workers.

Lockheed Aircraft Company announced 1,225 employees of its Burbank, Calif., plant would be paid time and a half for overtime, instead of time and a third.

Mussolini Strides Through Colony

Derna, Libya, March 13—(AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini, inspecting his vast North Africa colonial domain, strode through throngs of cheering Moslems today, acclaimed as the "protector of our race and our religion."

"God, through you is restoring peace and prosperity to mankind," the Moslem magistrate of Derna told 11 Duce in welcoming him to the seaport city on his first visit to Libya in a decade.

Ahead of 11 Duce was a 10-day schedule to see great stretches of the colony Italy wrested from Turkey in 1912 and to inspect its augmented air and other military forces.

GERMAN REPLY EXCUSES NAZI PRESS ATTACK

Asserts Excitement Over LaGuardia Caused Furor

Berlin, March 13—(AP)—Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath, sources close to the Wilhelmstrasse said today, has answered United States Ambassador William E. Dodd's representations against German press attacks with the explanation they were not intended to offend.

Von Neurath, they said, pointed out the strictures of Mayor LaGuardia of New York against the German regime and said they created "understandable" indignation throughout the reich.

If some German newspapers exceeded proper bounds in their comments, the foreign minister was said to have asserted, it was because of their excitement over the LaGuardia remarks.

Baron von Neurath assured the United States ambassador no insult to the United States nation was intended, these circles said.

Incident "Closed"

He also called attention, they said, to what he termed spiteful, untruthful representations of German problems in sections of the American press.

The foreign office said no public announcement would be made here, however, of the conversations yesterday between Mr. Dodd and von Neurath. Insofar as the German government is concerned, informed quarters said, the incident is closed.

The United States Consulate meanwhile succeeded in delaying the election of Boris Smolnar, Jewish Telegraphic Agency correspondent who had been given three days to leave the country, until March 18.

The foreign press association, also opening negotiations on Smolnar's behalf, communicated with the foreign office, urging the order against Smolnar and his wife be rescinded.

parking their cars on the streets within the business district. "The Junior Chamber of Commerce, I am told, has circulated petitions among the business and professional men and their clerks, requesting that they cease the practice of parking their cars in the business district between certain hours, to provide more parking space for those coming to Dixon to shop. This is a commendable undertaking, but I learn that there are some violations still existing. I request all business and professional men and their clerks of Dixon to cooperate in this movement and park their cars outside the business district. There is no reason why they should not and the short walk would be better for them.

"At this time, when everything possible is being done by our merchants to increase business and employment in Dixon, I can see no reason why parking space in the down town section should be occupied by the cars of business men."

Parkings Space Solved? Contractor Walter L. Smith added his comment on the city's traffic regulations. He stated that in driving on Hennepin avenue between First and Second streets Friday afternoon, he observed six cars parked double. When he drove into a parking space on First street, a cab owner claimed he was paying $15 a month for that section of the street for the parking of his cab. Mr. Smith asserted that no less than four cab stands were occupying valuable parking space in the business district. He also called the attention of the council to the storage of structural steel on Galena avenue, the Lincoln highway, north of First street, which he stated had occupied a portion of the street for more than four months, and termed the practice an imposition upon the public.

Mayor Slothower at once was interested in who was receiving $15 a month for the use of the city's streets, and City Attorney Gannon stated that this was doubtless paid to the merchant in front of whose place of business the stand was established. He added that the Chief of Police was authorized by ordinance to extend such courtesies, but that the ordinances contained no provision that cab owners may occupy the streets and infringe upon the citizens.

A resolution conveying to the Illinois Armory board parts of four lots located in the E. C. Parsons addition and now the property of the city, which are to become a part of the armory property, was unanimously adopted by council and the regular semi-monthly claims against the city were ordered paid.

Redfern To Help Direct Military Ball Grand March

Champaign-Urbana, Ill., March 13.—R. K. Redfern of 518 Peoria, Dixon has been appointed a member of the floor committee which will direct the grand march at the annual Military ball of the University of Illinois April 16. It was announced here today by Cadet Lt.-Col. Harlan A. Hahs-barger, chairman of arrangements.

The Military ball is one of the five topmost events in the University's social calendar. The others are the four class dances. All of these, except the Senior ball, are held in the first semester. The Senior ball in June climaxes the school and social year.

Redfern as an advanced corps student in the University of Illinois R. O. T. C. brigade is one of the cadet officers of what has been termed by military men as one of the nation's best units for the training of civilian soldiers. More than 2,000 Illinois youths annually receive commissions in the organized reserve of the U. S. army.

HONOR GUARD PINS FOR AUXILIARY MEMBERS

There will be a regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary Tuesday evening at 7:30 at the Legion hall. A good attendance of members is requested. Members will receive their 15 year Honor Guard pins at this meeting. Mrs. Mary Arnold, Margaret Dixon, Anna Drew, Hannah Fallstrom, Florence Hardesty, Marie Hetler, Celia Jones, Idah Rosbrook, Celia Snyder, Viola Strub, Louise Wilhelm and Miss Gladys Hardesty. Past President Marie Kelly had the honor and pleasure of receiving her pin at the Department convention held at Danville last fall. The following members having received their pins at a former date were Katherine Garner, Veka Lenox, Lillian Stevens, deceased, Bernice Batchelder and Eliza Brand. After the business meeting is concluded, the Dixon unit will celebrate in honor of the 18th birthday of the American Legion. A social evening of cards will be enjoyed after which refreshments will be served. A good attendance is desired.

Marion Unit Will Meet In Walton

Marion Unit of the Home Bureau is holding its March meeting in the church basement at Walton.

An invitation is extended to every home-maker in Marion township to attend. It is the desire of the unit to have every woman in the township know about Home Bureau. Women from other townships are welcome. Several neighboring units will be guests also.

The major project lesson, "What Is New In Window Treatment" is of timely interest to every home-maker. Miss Elizabeth Coleman, home adviser, who gives this lesson will have many helpful hints. The first of a series of lessons on "Correct English" a minor project, will be directed by the local leader. The meeting begins at 11 A. M. with a buffet dinner at noon. Usual picnic rules. Come and get acquainted with your other neighbors and also pick up some information you can use in your every day work in home-making.

LEGION AUXILIARY MET ON WEDNESDAY

There were 26 American Legion Auxiliary members and friends present Wednesday at an all day sewing of carpet rags at the home of Mrs. Wood. Considerable work was accomplished by the ladies as well as visiting at the noon hour a most wonderful scramble dinner was enjoyed after which the president, Mrs. Emma Phalen introduced Attorney Sherwood Dixon, guest speaker for the afternoon, who spoke on National Defense and Americanism, which proved to be very interesting to the ladies present.

Concerts

Dixon Woman's Club to Sponsor Series of Meritorious Events

In a meeting yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Nachusa the Dixon Woman's club enthusiastically adopted motions to bring to Dixon a series of outstanding concerts during the 1937-38 season. These concerts will feature renowned artists who will appear locally at popular prices. Costs of an adult ticket good for all three of the concerts will be approximately $2.50 while junior or student tickets will be available at $1.

This series will be brought to Dixon through the co-operative services of Walter L. Larsen of the National League of Community Concerts. Mr. Larsen is entering into his fourth year of bringing to various smaller communities famous concert artists who ordinarily are available only to more metropolitan areas at much higher costs to the music lover.

An informal membership drive by the Women's club to gain a nucleus for definite establishment of the concert series is to be undertaken immediately, under the guidance of Mr. Crawford Thomas who was elected temporary chairman for the drive.

Through Mr. Larsen's co-operative plan Dixon will see the series of three concerts during the coming concert season of 1937-38. The proposed place where the concerts will be held is the local high school auditorium with a seating capacity of 1100. Joliet and Kankakee are other towns who will be included on the concert circuit. Establishment of a circuit enables the artists to appear consecutively in these towns at a much lower cost than if they made single appearances at any of the town individually.

Artists featured by the National League of Community Concerts include: Alec Templeton, world-renowned, brilliant English pianist, composer and master of improvisation. Mr. Templeton's musical talents are all the more amazing because he has been handicapped by blindness since birth. He was first introduced to this country through the medium of Jack Hilton's orchestra. He appeared with the famed English maestro in the Gold Coast room of the Drake hotel in Chicago a few years back. He is especially popular with the younger set and delights them with his clever improvisations of any tune offered to him in his concert appearances.

Gina Vanna, of Chicago, former violin prodigy at the age of 3, winner of a $10,000 prize from 10,000 contestants as the finest pianist in Chicago and at fourteen, and a singer at the Chicago Grand Opera Company at nineteen is probably the most versatile of any young American artists today. She has starred in radio and has appeared with the San Francisco Opera Company and the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

Others equally as renowned and brilliant in their field include: Ennio Bolognini, South American cellist, who is Piatigorsky's closest rival for cellist supremacy; Edward Vito, solo harpist for the NBC and the Civic Opera in Chicago, and William Miller, young lyric tenor, who has been called "the American John McCormack" by critics. Mr. Miller has proved to be one of the most popular artists appearing in Mr. Larsen's concert tours. He is featured on the National Contended hour over NBC and also has appeared with the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

Under the contemplated programs, Mr. Templeton would appear individually while Gina Vanni and Ennio Bolognini would appear together as would William Miller and Edward Vito.

Leydig To Direct Palmyra Unit's Entertainment

Palmyra Unit of the Home Bureau was delightfully entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Norman Dietrich. The chairman, Mrs. David Law opened the meeting.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. Roll call was answered by sixteen members. The membership committee's report was given and accepted.

After more routine business, the lesson, "What Is New In Window Treatment" was given by Home Adviser Elizabeth Coleman.

Minor project lesson "On Good English" was given by Mrs. Edward Mensch. A song was sung.

The unit will sponsor an evening's entertainment given under the able leadership of Louis Leydig and cast at the Sugar Grove church Tuesday evening, March 23, beginning at 8 P. M.

Recreation was in charge of Mrs. Charles Jann. The hostess then

HEART TROUBLE — BY "HELENE"

She Will Solve Your Love Once Each Week In This Column Appearing Saturdays

CONDESCENSION

I'll marry this hero when he comes along.
This superman of radio song.
He's chased dandruff with Kriml, there's not a speck.
With Mennens' lather he's shaved his neck.
His figure superb, that's Dietine.
And his secret is safe with Listerine.
Sure I'll marry the mug, but my heart won't burst.
If some other woman should see him first.

Dear Helene!—Perhaps you can help me in my problem. I have fallen in love with a girl who was a school teacher. She is very reserved and dignified and I am wondering how I can break her love resistance. I am tall and fairly good-looking, dress well, and can borrow a car from my roommate at any time.

I am the only man in the office where I work yet the other girls don't appear to me at all which assures me that my love is real. I don't smoke, drink, or go to road houses which should appeal to her. What would you advise?

—B. M. Blue.

Dear B. M. Blue!—Maybe shyness accounts for half of the dignity and reserve you attribute to this girl. Unfortunately you will have a tendency to be the same while you are in her company. Be natural and spontaneous when you are with her. Confidences will beget confidences. Regardless of her diffidence, just be yourself. I believe the young lady's reserve will melt.

fashioned in her appearance. I have searched and searched for a girl like this. I had hoped when I came to a small town to find her, but even here I find the girls as independent as they are in the cities.

Helene, will you advise me where I might find an old-fashioned clinging vine girl? One of the type that existed in our mothers' time.

Thanking you I am, Sincerely yours,

"Searching"

Searching: I can understand your desire for an old-fashioned girl, but what in the world do you want with a "clinging vine"? The clinging vine was not a natural species, she was a cultivated house variety of femininity, satisfying to the male ego but parasitical as an orchid and as worthless.

Like the orchid, she was a wonderful decoration for a man's table but made small contribution toward the sustenance thereon.

No—for your own good, I'll not try to help you locate a "clinging vine", besides we have been led to hope and believe that the last one died in a fit of the vapors when someone mentioned "eugenics."

Now for your old-fashioned girl. Just give the modern self-supporting business girl a break. She also is a cultivated product. That brusque, independent manner is a necessity for her survival in the business world. Don't judge her by the casual observations you are able to make while she is at work.

Take out some efficient little secretary who is a "keen dresser" and satisfactory to the eyes. Get acquainted with her. She may surprise you. If you can only dig up a mouse, she may so far forget the inhibitions engendered by the necessity of being self-dependent, as to revert to the Victorian—she might even throw her arms around you and cling.

—Helene.

Helene: I am a young man in my late twenties. I have an above average position, and am considered nice looking. If you care for the decided brunette type. My difficulty is, I want to find an old-fashioned girl. One who is a clinging vine, and not a bold, modern independent business girl. Yet, I want this old fashioned girl to be a "keen dresser" and not be old-fashioned.

served very lovely refreshments. The meeting then adjourned to meet with Mrs. Carl Straw in April.

Mrs. Sandberg Is Vice-President Of War Mothers

Lee County American War Mothers held their regular meeting in G. A. R. hall Friday March 5. After the regular reports were given the standing committee chairman gave very satisfactory reports.

Plans for the coming convention were discussed and are progressing nicely. Mrs. Lottie Sandberg was elected to fill the office of second vice president, Mrs. Ida Rosbrook who has been quite ill was able to attend this meeting and express deep regret that she had not been able to fill the president's chair.

Mrs. Eugene Ambler, department president of the American War Mothers of Illinois was in Dixon, Monday and Tuesday, March 8 and 9, making plans for the coming department convention which will convene in Dixon, April 14, 15 and 16.

Mrs. Ambler entertained the convention committee at Hotel Nachusa, Monday afternoon when an outline for the convention program was made. The committee from Lee county chapter are Mrs. Viola E. Strub, Mrs. Eliza Brand, Mrs. Lee Eastman and Mrs. Clara W. Bunnell. The evening of Monday was spent at the home of Mrs. Bunnell and further arrangements were completed.

Methodist Aid Society Meeting At Mrs. Schrock's

Circle One of the Methodist aid society met at the home of Mrs. Sterling Schrock with a very good attendance.

Mrs. Howard Buxton had charge of the program showing pictures taken in Colorado of the Garden of the Gods, Estes Park and the cliff dwellers country which were all very beautiful.

Mrs. McGraham read a poem about natural beauty fitting in with the pictures. The business meeting was then taken care of April being activity month. Plans were suggested for different undertakings. A number of sick members were reported.

Two lovely cakes were sold by the piece which caused quite a lot of excitement. Mrs. Schrock and Mathias served light refreshments and Mrs. Martin and Whitson poured. The guests departed after

Highland Avenue Club Entertained By Four Ladies

The Highland Avenue club was very delightfully entertained Tuesday evening at the John Byers home by Mrs. Thomas Erwin, Mrs. Ruth Matheson, Mrs. Lloyd Emmert and Mrs. George Mathias. A business session was held in charge of the club president.

Bingo was the chief diversion of the evening and was enjoyed by all present. Very dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

The meeting then adjourned to meet at the Walter Origiesen home in April with Mrs. Walter Origiesen, Mrs. Albert Peit, Mrs. Guy Taylor and Mrs. John Bennett as hostesses.

Lovely Shower For Mrs. Remmers

Miss Mandena Green and Mrs. Norman Miller entertained Friday afternoon, March 5, with a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Henry Remmers (Miss Helen Patterson).

These ladies were thirty old neighbors of Helen's when the Pattersons lived in the neighborhood of St. James. The afternoon was spent in talking over old times. Mrs. Remmers opened many useful presents from the ladies. The hostess served refreshments and on departing the guests wished Helen much happiness in her new home.

Mrs. Yonty of Dixon visited at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lenthien Friday.

Mrs. Marvin Miller is recuperating from an appendicitis operation. She is in the Amboy hospital and is reported improving nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave North and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Deane and son Lowell, left today for Louisville, Kentucky where they will visit with friends and relatives. They also intend to visit in Elizabeth, Ind. They expect to be gone for about a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold North are the proud parents of a baby son born Friday afternoon at their home. They recently moved to the Clark Butler farm, previously occupied by Morris Deane. Harold will work for his father, Dave North.

TO ARIZONA

Miss Mary Hobbs left Friday afternoon for a visit in Inspiration, Arizona with her cousin, Mrs. Hobbs has been spending the week with her grandmother, Mrs. Alice Beede.

DIXON HOME UNIT AT MRS. EARL AUMAN'S

Dixon Home Unit of the Home Bureau will be at the home of Mrs. Earl Auman, 518 East Second street, Monday evening.

LUNCHEON AND BRIDGE

Mrs. L. B. Hoefler and Mrs. A. H. Lancaster will entertain Wednesday with a luncheon after which the guests will enjoy a game of bridge at the home of Mrs. Lancaster.

PEORIA AVE. CLUB TO MEET ON MONDAY

The Peoria Avenue Reading club will meet Monday afternoon at 2:30 with Miss Anna Geisenheimer at her home, 212 Ottawa avenue.

DAILY HEALTH

By Dr. Iago Goldston

REDUCER'S DIET

Eating is decidedly an individual matter. Tastes and habits vary greatly. Some eat little but often; others have few meals but large ones.

It is therefore practically impossible to draft a diet suitable for any substantial portion of the population. The task is even more difficult when the diet is intended to reduce body weight.

No more than general rules can be effectively given. The application of these rules must in the final analysis be subject to individual preferences, prejudices and limitations.

But some pointers are of value. The reduction diet should be formulated out of your regular diet. To establish the latter, keep a record preferably in a small notebook which you can carry about with you, of what and how much you eat at each meal. Record also whatever you consume between meals or snacks.

Keep this record for at least a week. Then calculate the caloric value of each day's intake. Strike an average for the week, and you will have an idea of the amount (caloric) and of the kinds of foods you consume.

Now proceed to examine critically the facts revealed and decide where and to what extent the caloric content of the diet needs to be curtailed.

Here are a few general pointers which should help:

Reduce your daily diet by at least 800 calories.

Strike off your food list all forms of candy, sugar, jams, jellies, nuts, ice cream.

Allow yourself a minimum of butter and cream, bread, potatoes and other starchy foods.

Avoid fat meats and foods fried in fats, gravies and sauces.

Add to the bulk of your meals by including generous portions of fresh salads, vegetables and fruits.

Do not eat between meals, or if you must, take fruit.

Do not starve yourself excessively.

Do not allow yourself to lose more than two pounds a week.

Be certain to include in your diet

CROW-KILLING CONTEST OPENS

First One Sponsored By State To Last Two Months

Springfield, Ill., Mar. 13.—(AP)—Illinois conservation department employees have wished upon themselves the task of counting crows' feet for the next two and one-half months.

The unusual job will be in connection with the state's first crow killing contest, scheduled to get underway Tuesday, as part of Conservation Director Charles P. Thompson's campaign to eradicate as many as possible of the dusky birds.

P. J. Erio, chief department inspector, who has charge of the contest, said 300 entries had been received from 37 counties and that approximately 4,000 sportsmen would participate.

Many of the entries were by conservation clubs and sportsmen's organizations while the remainder were by individual contestants.

"The first official count of pairs of feet will be made March 31, followed by a count at the end of each 15-day period thereafter until the contest closes May 31," Erio said.

To Stop Bombings

"How the contestants kill the crows makes no difference to us as long as they kill them. Whoever wins this contest will have to kill a lot of birds."

With the start of the contest, the department will cease its annual "crow bombing" activities, which Erio estimated brought death this winter to 150,000 of the pests.

Winners in the contest will be awarded quails or pheasants, produced by the department this year and to be released by conservation officials on premises designated.

To the winner of first place will go 100 quail or pheasants, with the awards scaling downward to 10 birds for fifth place.

The crows' feet will be sent to the state game farm here for counting and tabulation by Erio and his assistants.

Erio said that the department had dressed about 6,000 crows this winter for in distribution in sandwiches at sportsmen's shows, civic club meetings and other gatherings.

MAKING UP THE RECORD

The record is being made up in relation to one of the most serious crimes in the history of the United States. We now are observing the operations in Washington as an assault is being made upon the Supreme Court and an effort is being made to change the form of government by usurpation rather than by the prescribed procedure of amendment of the Constitution.

Part of the record in connection with the judiciary consists of the nomination of Judge J. Earl Major of the United States District Court for the vacancy in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. It is generally understood that the nomination is on recommendation of Senator Dieterich of Illinois, who by custom is conceded the right to choice of any person for such a post in downstate Illinois.

The post has been vacant for a year and four months, through the period which President Roosevelt indicated there had been delayed justice because of a shortage of judges. The appointment has been withheld all these many months and now is forthcoming just as the administration is beating the bushes for senatorial votes for the president's bill creating a new Supreme Court.

In these circumstances Senator Dieterich has an opportunity to make his record look very good or very bad, when the roll is called.

STUDY LATEST EXAMPLE

OF NAZI REGIMENTATION

You can learn quite a bit about the relative merits of democracy and autocracy by studying the undeclared war which Mayor LaGuardia of New York seems to be waging with the Nazi government of Germany.

The mayor began it, as American mayors so often do, by sounding off at some length on the evils of dictatorship. In brief, he suggested that New York install a chamber of horrors at its coming world's fair, and that it put the brown-shirted figure of a Nazi in it as a terrible example.

That started the fun. The German government lodged a formal protest with the American State Department, protesting that a friendly power had been in-sulted. The State Department made the obvious reply —that while this might be so, there is no authority or tradition by which an American government can exercise the remotest sort of control over an American mayor.

Then the German newspapers swung into cry.
Der Angriff remarked darkly that Germany might take an interest in American events which "might not be precisely pleasant," unless Mayor LaGuardia's "slanderous words" are retracted.

Other papers followed suit. The mayor was denounced as "a shameless lout," as "an apostle of hate with a thieves' den mentality," as a "nasty fellow" (someone was lacking in inventiveness, on that one).

And out of it all we get one of the frothiest teapot tempests by which German-American relations have been troubled since Huey Long received a Nazi cruiser commander while clad in green silk pajamas.

The thing isn't important, of course. It is simply one of those squabbles which are inevitable when the loose organization of a democracy bumps up against the completely regimented phalanx of a dictatorship.
But it is rather instructive.

The American government has no control at all over American mayors; the German government has complete and absolute control over German newspaper editors. There lies the contrast.

Under our system, a mayor can say and do anything he pleases without accounting to Washington for his acts. He can make votes for himself by riling the feelings of a friendly nation, as Mayor LaGuardia is now doing and as Big Bill Thompson once did in Chicago with his threats to punch King George of England in the nose. It means nothing at all.

Under the other system, an editor says nothing whatever without the approval of the central government. His lightest word reflects the feeling of his overlord. If he spouts fish-wife abuse, he simply mirrors the mentality of the people on top.

Each system has its defects. But can any American doubt that the system of no control at all is a lot easier to live under than the system of too much control?

THE OLD "COME ON"?

Ever since the World War ended, sad disillusionment has been the lot of America. Immediately after the "war to end wars," for instance, foreign nations began to hatch another imbroglio. America has had to whistle for most of the money it loaned abroad. In addition, it has had to listen to numerous overseas contentions that the United States played a minor role in the winning of the great war.

Suddenly, however, we are beginning to learn that debtor nations are considering paying off, and to find out—as Lord Lothian expressed himself in the House of Lords the other day—that Britain could not have emerged victor from the World War without Uncle Sam's aid.

Honeyed words, these, but are they sincere? Or are they just part of a campaign to cement tattered bonds of Anglo-American understanding, and to lure Uncle Sam back into his role of 1917-18?

BACKWASH OF THE FLOOD

From a Detroit fire house comes an intensely tragic

Rive Snowbirds Leave Their Nest For a Whirl in the Open

Out on the porch of their nursery to catch a few breaths of crisp, winter air, the Dionne quintuplets look over the railing at a white snow-world challenging their invasion. Cecile, left, and Marie seem to be in a huddle over just how the attack should start. Next is Annette, armed with a snow shovel. Emilie purses her lip as she makes a keen survey of the scene, while Yvonne, at right, apparently is puzzled by the decoration on her bucket. Prospecting is fun, but wait until tomorrow! Then the quins will go down the steps into that exciting winter world.

his brother had died as a result of the Ohio river flood,
and left for Kentucky to bury his dead.

Several days later a secretary at Detroit fire headquarters got a telegram stating that another of the fireman's brothers had died. Then another wire revealed that their mother had followed her two boys in death. From the fireman's wife came another message to the secretary that her husband was critically ill; then one, that he had died. A final wire revealed that the fireman's sister had passed away.

The entire family, it seems, had been wiped out by pneumonia, the result of living in a house left waterlogged, dank, and chill by flood waters.

Since deaths from illness rarely reach news columns, tragedies such as this may not be unusual in the wake of the great flood — just another reason why authorities should not relax efforts to stave off other such catastrophes.

Franklin Grove Happenings

MISS GRACE PEARL, CORRESPONDENT

Franklin Grove—Mr. and Mrs. Warren Strock of Jefferson, Iowa, were Sunday night and Monday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bates. They were en route to Chicago being called there by the illness of her sister. Mr. and Mrs. Strock are former residents of this place. He having spent all his boyhood days here.

Supervisor Charles Ramsdell attended the meeting of the board of supervisors held in the court house in Dixon the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Hussey of this place in company with Mr. and Mrs. George Robinson of Ashton, motored to Broadhead, Wis., Sunday where they visited in the home of the ladies' parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Smith.

In a letter received from Mrs. L. E. Graves, dated March 8, New London, Iowa, she states that her husband, Louis, had an operation for the removal of cataracts from both eyes, at Burlington, Iowa. "He is getting along fine and we expect to be back sometime the latter part of March." Louis has spent all his life in this community, and his many friends are hoping with him and his family that the operation will be a success.

Mrs. LaForrest Meredith entertained the Kilo club at her home Tuesday afternoon. Thirteen members responded to the roll call "Believe it or Not," which was not only very interesting, but extremely entertaining. Mrs. Cecil Cravens gave a splendid review of the book, "Steps Going Down," by McIntyre. After the program a social hour followed during which lovely refreshments were served.

The Ashton Gazette this week carries a full page of Franklin Grove community news. A four column picture of the proposed community house and gymnasium and the plans for the same. The Gazette is an up to date paper in every respect and Franklin Grove will appreciate this courtesy.

The playlet presented by nine ladies of the Missionary society of the Presbyterian church Wednesday drew a good sized audience. The play is spoken of as very clever. It is the general opinion of all present that it should be repeated and in a larger place. The silver offering amounted to nearly $14. Mrs. Morton Dockery and her daughter, Mrs. Helen Hopkins favored with several vocal duets, accompanied by the guitar. After the program light refreshments were served. Every one pronounced it an evening well spent and much enjoyed.

Mrs. Dave Wiegell, Mrs. Howard Biesecker, Mrs. Ruth Biesecker, Mrs. Horace Dysart and Mrs. Lena Smith, spent Monday in Rockford.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gross transacted business in Dixon, Wednesday.

Mrs. Howard Biesecker and Mrs. Carl Degner spent Wednesday in Amboy with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Wiegell of Dixon were supper guests Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Blocher.

Woman's Club Notes
The Woman's club held a special board meeting Monday night. It was decided to have a special meeting on Monday, April 5 at Mrs. Howard Biesecker's, for election of officers, April 6, the I. N. U. will sponsor a cooking school for the club and guests at the Presbyterian church. The program will start at 1:30 P. M. It was voted to add 3 more departments for club meetings. They are junior department, legislation and literature. The five are fine arts, education, gardens, American homes, public welfare. These eight departments will take charge of the eight meetings for the next year. The club being divided into eight sections. The May luncheon will be held at the home of Mrs. Durkes, May 17. It was decided not to invite guests this year.

"Don't Be Fooled"
Every worthy project has to weather a certain amount of opposition. The new gymnasium project is no exception. At the present writing the proposition is receiving a warm welcome by the large majority of voters. However, one or two of its opponents failing to find flaws in the project are resorting to the manufacture of untrue facts. Don't be fooled on the following points, they are the true facts:

1. In the event of a favorable election, the building costs cannot exceed the original estimate, since the bond issue authorizes $15,000 only and there is no legal means to obtain other building funds.
2. Residents of the village as well as farmers have a right to vote at any district No. 250 election. Residents of the village pay a separate high school tax as do the farmers out of the village limits.
3. The operation and building of the new community building are entirely in the hands of district No. 250.
4. Actual gifts totaling $3,000 to $4,000 have been made toward this new building.

One Ticket
So far only one ticket has been filed for the village election. For mayor—George L. Spangler. For trustees—Raymond Jacobs, J. T. Gilbert, Adam Wendel, Charles Howard.

As we understand that the time for filing does not close until next Friday, March 19. There may be more tickets by that time.

Girl Scout Meeting
The Girl Scouts met Monday evening, March 8, 1937 in their room. The meeting was opened by everyone saying the Yord's Prayer, and the Girl Scout pledge. A knot and flag review were then practiced. Refreshment were then served. The bake sale that was held last Saturday turned out to be great success. The different troops take turns planning and taking charge of the meeting. This meeting being planned by the high school patrol.

Class Meeting
The Home Builders class will meet Thursday, March 18, at 2 P. M., with Mrs. Frank Ross. Roll call will be something regarding Easter in poem truth or decoration of home and table.

W. C. T. U. Notes
The W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. Sadie Blaine, Friday, March 5, with J. E. Wolfe as leader. The subject was "Alcohol Education. Responsive reading on "What Alcohol is and Does" were given by the union. A short discussion during the business meeting revealed that Illinois is at the head of the list of gold star states in raising the Centenary Fund of one million dollars for alcohol education. Our local union should raise $7200 to meet the gold star credit and we are greatly encouraged with the steady climbing our solicitors report toward that goal. Two new subscriptions were received for the Union Signal. The report from the chairman of alcohol education in our community showed interesting and helpful plans under way. Mrs. Linnie Buck read a paper which was the reply of club women to a query sent out by the board of liquor control in which it was stated from more than one half of the replies that drinking has increased and that no temperance educational work is being done by federated clubs. Mrs. Blaine read a poem concerning the Best Ship in which it was urged that all thinking women should get aboard the membership of the union. "This is a treasure ship, pleasure ship, O come aboard the W. C. T. U. membership." Mrs. Elisabeth Sunday gave a talk on temperance education in which she explained that the education fund is to be used to educate the public on what alcohol is and what it does. This is to be done by means of motion pictures newspaper advertisements, radio broadcasts, research work, teacher's institutes (training how to teach alcohol education) field work (training public speakers for temperance work) and road signs and posters. To show how effective the latter has been, the wets made an effort to prohibit such signs in Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New York, where they are being used. Mrs. O. D. Buck gave a brief talk from an address given at Winona, Ind., at No-Tobacco League convention. Effective slogans could be put out by our physicians offsetting liquor advertisements. Three out of ten who use liquor become addicts. Two thirds of liquor sold in Ohio today is bootleg.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. The union met Friday, April 2 at 2:30 P. M. (Note change of time.)

Brethren Notes

There will also be solo singers entered in the high soprano, medium soprano, alto, high boys' voice, medium boys' voice and bass sections. These will be chosen by a preliminary contest at school, held sometime this month.

Around the School
The Home Economics club visited Borden's candy, milk and cheese factories in Dixon on Monday. They are now deeply engrossed in making miniature homes and furniture as a part of their family relationships unit.

The orchestra played at Carthage school Friday night. That was the first time this year that the high school orchestra has appeared anywhere except in the high school. This last Monday was the end of the first six weeks period of the second semester.

The scholarship contest conducted last week was a success. In Miss Lyford's Algebra and Plane Geometry classes, the students chose sides and waged a regular contest as to which side could make the most improvement in scholarship. In the Geometry class Gerald Emmert's side won.

Sports
In the line of sports this week the time was devoted to track only. Mr. Edwards has charge of all the runners and coaches all running events. Fourteen boys were out for dashes Monday afternoon for the first time. Mr. Fox will coach the boys in the field events. We believe in starting early, that is the only way one can get anyplace.

Sometime in the near future the G. A. A. is planning a party for the basketball team.

Through the Keyhole
It has been rumored about school that our new student, Eugene Giron has been wearing "Beth" Christner's class ring, and also has been going roller-skating with her. (It must have been love at first sight.)

Now that Spring is fast approaching we are looking forward to an epidemic of spring fever and puppy love affairs. It's best to remember that puppy love often leads to a dog's life.

There are meters trochaic And metres iambic And meters of musical tone But the meter That's sweeter And also completer Is to meet 'er in the moonlight alone.

The trouble with a lot of people isn't that they are insane, it's just that they go out of their minds and forget to leave a forwarding address.

Methodist Church Notes
Sunday school, 9:15.
Preaching, 10:00.
Remember the thank offering service to be held in the evening at 7:30. Miss Dorothy Jones is the speaker of the evening. You will enjoy hearing her.

Presbyterian Church Notes
Sunday school, 9:30.
Preaching, 10:30.
Rev. Louis Grafton, the newly elected pastor will be present and preach. All are invited to attend.

Missionary Meeting
The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will hold their annual Thankoffering meeting on Sunday evening at 7:30 at the Methodist church.

Miss Dorothy Jones of Chun King West China, will be the speaker. She has just recently returned and coming from that section of China where so much has been happening politically, she will no doubt be able to give us much first hand information that will be very interesting. She is not a stranger to us, having been sent out by the Joliet-Dixon district of our W. F. M. S. and has spoken several times at our institutes. Jones is an excellent speaker and tutes on the camp grounds. Miss we urge every one who can to hear her. A collection will be taken for the Thank offering of the local society.

Music
On April 3 the sub-district contest in music will be held in Mt. Morris on April 17 the district contest will be held in DeKalb, and on April 30 and May 1 the state music contest will be held in Macomb.

The following groups will be entered in the contest by Franklin Grove: Girl's double quartet of Ione Butterbaugh, Elizabeth Christner, Hazel Blume, Georgia Peterman, Marie Black, Jeanne Blank, June Hatch and Betty Wasson; Boys double quartet of Bill Ives,

"PROFESSOR QUIZ"

Much popular interest is being created by the radio program, of "Professor Quiz" which is being sponsored by Kelvinator, Division of Nash-Kelvinator Corporation, on a nation-wide hook-up of 55 stations each Saturday evening.

Recent growing popularity of the question-and-answer type of radio program places the "Professor Quiz" program in the first ranks of listener interest. During the half hour of the program, each Saturday evening from 7:00 to 7:30, Central Standard Time, "Professor Quiz" asks members of his personal audience questions which have been submitted by radio listeners. The answers, surprising and sometimes embarrassing, supply many moments of amusement.

Announcement is made on each "Professor Quiz" program of the nation-wide Kelvin Home contest being sponsored by Kelvinator. The W. H. Ware Hardware Store is local headquarters for the contest, where entry blanks may be obtained by contestants.

SECTIONAL CAGE CHAMPS NAMED TODAY

Woodstock Quintet Puts Rochelle Out of Meet

Chicago, March 13.—(AP)—Finalists in the Battle of Champions March 18-20 for the Illinois state high school basketball title will be decided tonight.

From 15 down state centers will come sectional tournament champions, while a sixteenth team will represent the Chicago area. This team will be either Farragut high of Wells, which meet late today for the metropolitan public school championship and a spot in the scramble for highest prep court packed with thrills. Proviso of Maywood went out of the running, bowing to Dundee in an upset 34 to 24. It was Dundee's 36th victory in 37 starts this season and stamped the team as one to watch at Champaign.

Favorite Beaten
At Springfield, Mt. Pulaski, expected to be a finalist, was eliminated in a hard-fought tilt by Springfield, 22 to 20. In the other game there, Athens walloped Beardstown, 45 to 31.

At Mt. Vernon, Centralia, which was expected to reach the finals, was whipped, 31 to 29, by Zeigler, with Du Quoin defeating Kinmundy, 35 to 28.

Ottawa eliminated Bloomington 34 to 35, the Ottawa team making 30 per cent of its shots. Decatur, the defending champion, came through by defeating Rantoul 20 to 15.

At Belleville
Wood River 39, Dupu 26.
Collinsville 21, Hillsboro 19.

Averill Breaks Down, Signs His 1937 Contract

Cleveland, March 13.—(AP)—A choice between a $10,000 salary or a $15,000 contract with a $2,000 bonus clause ended today a determined "sitdown" by Earl Averill, the Cleveland Indians' clouting outfielder.

Averill, who between prolonged salary arguments with club officials spent his time in an easy chair in his Cleveland Heights home while his teammates were toiling in training camp, agreed to sign formally today and start tomorrow for New Orleans.

The contract represents an increase from $11,000 and a $2,500 bonus he received last season, when he led the American league batting race most of the campaign.

Four Teams Neck In Neck For Big Ten Mat Laurels

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 13.—(AP)—It looked like a free-for-all fight for the Western conference wrestling crown today.

Four teams—Illinois, Minnesota, Michigan and Indiana, the defending champion—still were in the thick of the fight after last night's preliminary matches.

Illinois and Michigan, the pre-tournament favorites, seemed to have more than an even chance to win the team title, the Illini with six men qualified in the semi-finals and one in the finals, and the Wolverines with five survivors.

With Major Leaguers

News Briefs From Training Camps of American and National Leaguers

By The Associated Press
Havana, Cuba—Manager Frank Frisch and Cardinal officials awaited today the first test of the Red Bird pitching staff—minus Dizzy Dean—in two games with the New York Giants.

San Antonio, Tex.—The Browns appeared in good form today as they prepared for the training season opener against the Minneapolis Millers of the American Association, tomorrow.

Sarasota, Fla.—Wise, old Herbie Pennock, who has been in the American league since 1912, will take the Red Sox rookie pitchers out on the firing line today and give them lessons in throwing to first base.

San Bernardino, Calif.—Rain sent the Pittsburgh Pirates indoors for light exercises under the electric lights.

Havana, Cuba—The New York Giants began the task today of tugging with one of their most dangerous National league rivals the season—the St. Louis Cardinals.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Manager Joe McCarthy named a trio of rookie hurlers to pitch for the Yankees in today's "Grapefruit League" opener against the Boston Bees. Steve Sundra will open the battle, with Kemp Wicker and Jim Tobin following up.

Cleatwater, Fla.—Heinie Manish's clubbing is giving Burleigh Grimes visions of a Brooklyn Dodger outfield with a lot of punch this season.

Mexico City—The regular outfield trio of the Philadelphia Athletics now is intact. Wally Moses and Manager Mack reached a salary agreement and Wally will join Bob Johnson and Lu Finney, his fly-chasing mates, Tuesday.

Winter Haven, Fla.—The Philadelphia National league club will conduct a baseball school at its Philadelphia park the week of April 28 to uncover playing talent for its Centerville, Md., Eastern Shore league, farm.

PARENTS OF WHITE CHILD BRIDE OF NEGRO HELD IN SEATTLE

THE "PEOPLE'S CHOICE" AT DEMOCRATIC DINNER
—Gathered to celebrate the Democratic Victory at the polls last November, big-wigs of the New Deal made merry at Victory Dinner in Washington, D. C., during which F. D. R. attacked Supreme court as "Obstacle to progress." Above on occasion are Postmaster Farley, Mrs. and President Roosevelt and Thomas Qualters, bodyguard.

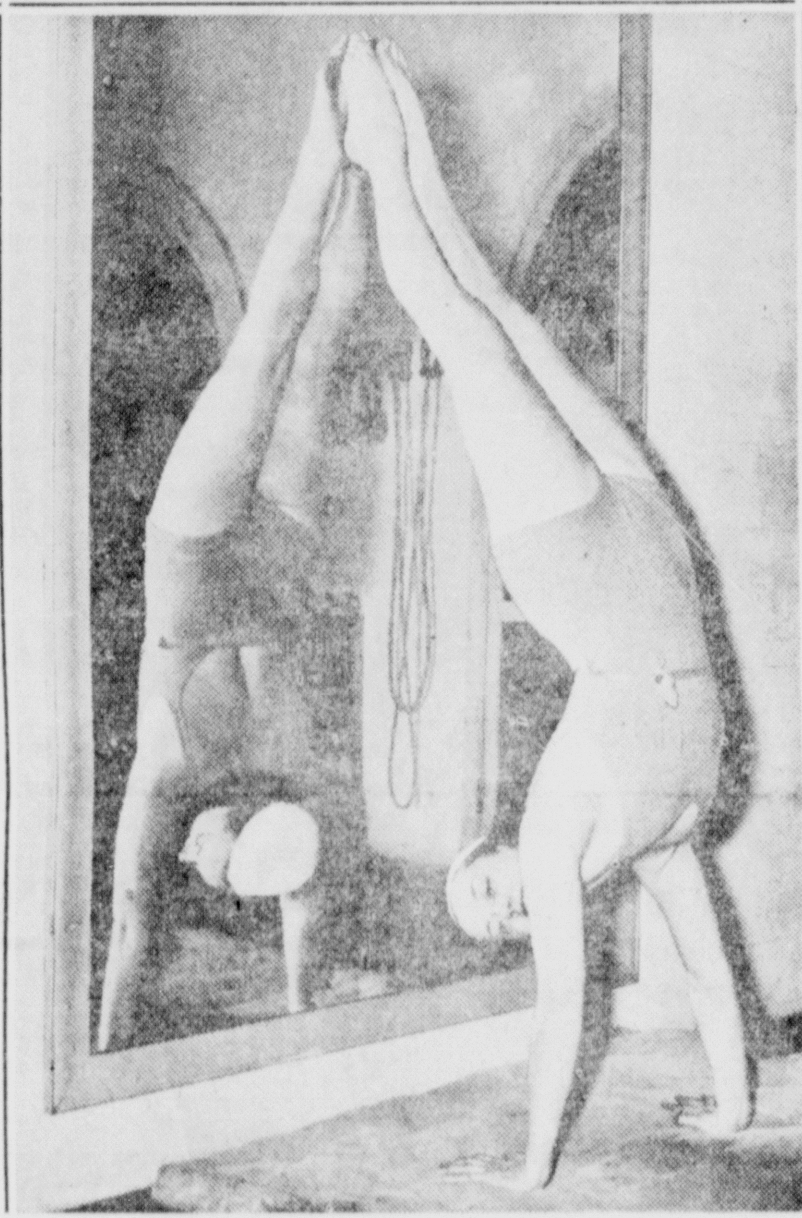

NEGRO AND WHITE BRIDE IN COURT
—Repercussions of the marriage of 14-year-old Delta Palmer (white) to John Lee Menifield, 38, both of Seattle, Wash., were heard in court there as parents of bride were hailed into court on charges of second degree perjury as regards their daughter's age at time of marriage. Groom was also held as accessory. Bride is seen (right) as husband calmly poses while parents cover up.

REWARD OF A HERO—
Girls from his class pay surprise visit to John McCaffrey, II, of New York, as he recovers from attempt to rescue his chum who fell from pier while they were playing on Gotham's waterfront. Strong current, icy water and chum's struggles, prevented the rescue.

A STAR'S REFLECTION
—Realizing that exercise is of utmost importance on path to athletic or aquatic achievement, Eleanor Holm Jarrett, (right) goes through paces as she prepares to conduct "Aquabelle" troupe at the Great Lakes Exposition in Cleveland, O., during summer months.

SUICIDE LEAP FAILS—
Saved by rescuers who braved the icy waters of Puget Sound, in Washington, to snatch him from a rendezvous with death, G. A. Rose, of Quilcene, is assisted ashore after boat docked in Seattle, following his spectacular leap in mid-bay. He described himself as "ill and not wanted any more."

GRIPPING SCENE AT MURDER VICTIM FUNERAL—
Mrs. Lula Sprouse, mother of 18-year-old Cleo Sprouse, victim of an overdose of chloroform, allegedly administered to murder her, is shown as she was prostrated with grief at grave of her daughter in Charlottesville, Va. Mrs. Alice Poole, victim's married sister, is being consoled (right) as teary eyed throng stands about. Man held claims death resulted during illegal operation.

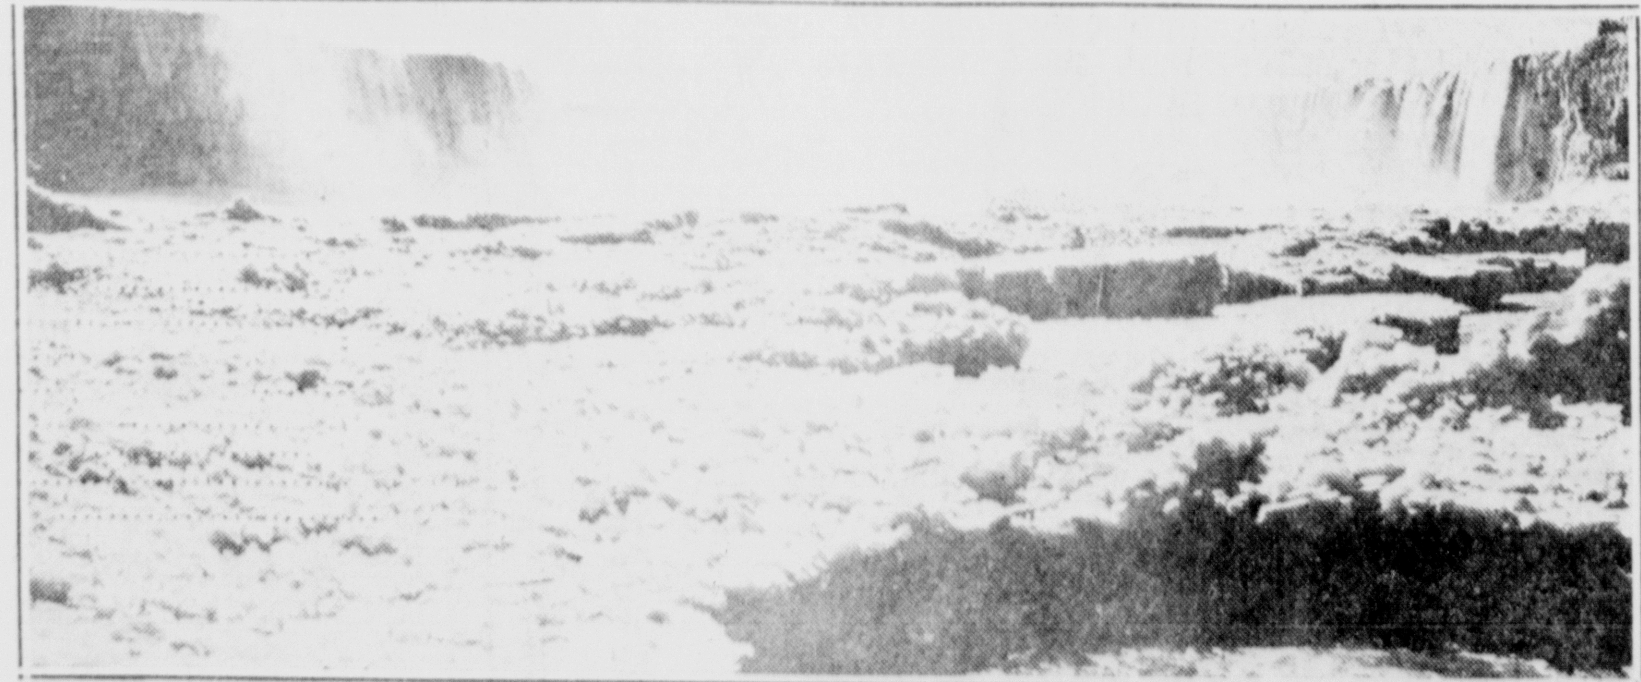

ALL IN A DAY'S WORK—
Johnny Murphy, Yankee pitcher, does a little "off the diamond" exercises as he walks his son Tommy about St. Petersburg, Fla., where he's lumbering up with Yankee squad for forthcoming season. Most of the major league teams are now at their training camps preparing for grueling trip down the pennant trail.

SCENE OF MANCHUKUO THEATRE FIRE THAT TOOK TOLL OF 800 LIVES—
At least 800 persons died in flaming ruins of theatre pictured above as fire broke out at Antung-Hsein, and swept the wooden interior before more than a few persons escaped.

SUNNY IN NAME ONLY—
The name "Sunny Sue" to which above bulldog answers when she is in the mood, applies, we judge, rather to her disposition than to her looks. She took "Best dog" honors at Miami dog show.

FIRETRAP TOLL UP TWO
—Two persons were killed and 350 driven to streets when a four alarm blaze, most spectacular in years, swept four tenements in heart of New York's east side.

NEAR RECORD ICE JAM
—Chaotic ice jam has piled up in Niagara gorge in what river men describe as the largest ice movement since 1908. Huge cakes of ice have already crashed away the waiting room for "Maid of the Mist" famous Niagara sightseeing boat.

STATE POLICE RADIO SYSTEM IS EXPLAINED

Dixon Engineers' Club Heard State Architect Last Evening

About 50 members of the Rock River Engineer's club, state highway police officers, sheriffs and chiefs of police heard an interesting talk last evening at the Elks club house, given by Ralph G. Harris, architect of the state department of public works and buildings of Springfield. His remarks concerned solely the state police radio system, which he explained in detail in a very interesting manner. Dan Branigan of the local highway department of offices was chairman of the meeting and presented the speaker. Architect Harris designed the new state highway department building in Dixon.

In his talk, Mr. Harris described the steel towers of the seven state police broadcasting stations, as being 329 feet in height, equal to a 32 story building. The towers, he demonstrated in a chalk talk, rest on a double porcelain base, each of which costs about $600. The towers are designed against a 90 mile an hour wind velocity, and the only two things which could dislodge them, the speaker said, would be a tremendously heavy sleet storm or an airplane crash.

Describing the base construction, Mr. Harris said a system of copper wire extends a distance of 329 feet in a circle about the base of the tower, these being buried underground. At the base of the tower and extending a distance of 50 feet from it is a mat of closely woven copper wire. This mat also covers the cement legs on which the tower stands.

Lights Clock-Controlled
Warning lights on the tower, he explained are not controlled by switches within the building, but by astronomical time clocks.

The buildings are of two designs, four of the seven stations having police headquarters in connection and the other three being radio stations only. No sleeping quarters are provided in any of the stations. The buildings are designed as fireproof, against the crashing of the tower, in which the public runs no risk, as dust proof insofar as is possible, are arranged to resist attack by gangsters, the broadcasting rooms being air conditioned and all equipped with the latest type of heating systems.

The equipment, he added, was for the greater part designed by Glenn West, state radio engineer, who came to Illinois from Purdue University, where he was a member of the faculty. All state police motorcycles are radio equipped, which, he stated, was a huge task alone. Engineer West who, he added, deserves a tremendous amount of credit for his efforts.

The transmitters used at the stations are the best obtainable, Mr. Harris said. Receiver sets on both cars and motorcycles are always tuned in and the police are not able to listen to baseball games or other programs because of the frequency adopted. All stations are operated on the same wave length, and specified times are assigned to the various stations to prevent interference, the central station being located at Springfield.

Sees National Chain

Each of the seven stations is tuned-in with an adjoining state radio system, and the speaker said that eventually every state in the union would be equipped with a radio system which would provide a nation-wide chain. When this is accomplished, he stated, the idea of a gang crossing a single state would be unthinkable.

Referring to the southern district radio station at Duquoin, Architect Harris stated that this station had paid for itself during the recent flood when all other means of communication were destroyed. Operators remained on duty 24 hours daily and the conditions would have been much worse had it not been for this station's communication with the outside world.

Mr. Harris explained that the state police system is now equipped with an airplane in the Chicago district, which would soon be radio equipped. Each station uses 1,000 watts broadcasting power, which affords a radius of 80 miles.

Tribute to Dixtonite

In closing Mr. Harris paid tribute to Virgil Carrier of this city, who has been engineer in charge of construction on the radio system. He was engaged in supervising the construction of the Dixon district highway building, after which his services were transferred to the state police radio system, now completed. He is now located at Peoria, supervising the construction of a new highway department headquarters in that city.

At the close of the program, Chairman Dan Branigan announced that Officer Edward Mahan, according to reports, would have the bedtime story hour at the Sterling station, and a most interesting program closed with the serving of refreshments and a social hour.

$100,000,000 WOULD INSURE WHEAT FARMER

Ever-Normal Granary Plan Even Broader Proposal

(By The Associated Press)
Washington, March 13.—Government farm experts are seeking to cut down the risks of farming, which they consider the greatest gamble in the world.

Senate agricultural leaders hope to send to the floor next week a measure setting up a $100,000,000 corporation to insure wheat farmers against the loss of their crops in bad years.

Such insurance is one part of a dual program to protect the producer against the hazards of nature and to stabilize both price and supply. The other part is the "ever-normal granary."

In other ages, the Biblical Joseph stored grains during the seven fat years to feed his people during the seven lean years.

Government farm experts applied this system to the modern farmer's problems by suggesting premiums be paid in grain during bumper years to guarantee the farmers a fixed portion of his normal crop in bad years.

Broader Proposal
The "ever-normal granary" program of Secretary Wallace is a broader proposal to cut out the wide shifts from too-much to too-little in the nation's food supply.

If consumers expect farmers to keep the granaries full, Secretary Wallace said, they "must be willing to safeguard farmers against disastrous consequences when the granary overflows."

To do this, he proposed four stages:

1. Continue present benefit payments to assure abundant production this year and in the immediate future.
2. If yields of any product go beyond the nation's needs, the government will make loans on the stored surplus.
3. If storage in granaries fails to cut the surplus which forces prices down, the government would turn to "storage in the soil"—through new benefit payments to restrict production.
4. Finally, if all else fails to halt excess production, a rigid crop control program would be ordered.

Mount Morris

By Pauline Yoe
Mt. Morris—Due to the splendid support given these activities in previous years the sub-district contest, both in speech and music have been assigned to Mount Morris. These will be held on Saturday, April 3.

In the speech contest 13 schools are to participate, they are Fulton, Galena, Leaf River, Mendota, Mount Morris, Prophetstown, Rochelle, Sandwich, Savanna, Sterling, Stockton, Warren and Waterman.

Fields in which schools will compete are: Extempore, speaking, original oration, dramatic reading, humorous reading, oratorical declamation and verse reading.

In the music contest, schools from seven counties will participate. Schools in these counties will be assigned to three sub-districts located at Mendota, Aledo and Mount Morris.

Members of the contest group in music have been chosen and are as follows:

Girls' glee club—Dorothy Silvius, Pauline Stengel, Mildred Dierdorff, Evelyn Graf, Betty Martin, Adelaide Noble, Maryalyce Olsen, Evonne Cain, Lorene Davis, Jeanette Hilger, Doris Hoover, Isabelle Kelsey, Harriett Kreider, Rebecca McNett, Doris March, Ruth Meeker, Velma Paul, Darlene Duckworth, Charlotte Avey, Ethel Balluff, Helen Barnhizer, Jane Devine, Phyllis Hoover.

Boys' glee club—Martin Deets, Conroy Baker, John Yoe, Bob Robinson, Dick Steffen, Bryant Zimmerman, Dale Henricks, Wallace Smith, Eugene Marshall, Harold Ross, Lee Loomis, Mark Asp, Eldon Smith, Fay Forman, Clarence Tracy, Matthias Huthansel, Robert Kump, Delbert Shell, Richard Park, Robert Newcomer, Jim Bruner, Gene Stull, Wilbur Whetzel, Gene Nunn.

The mixed chorus of 36 members will be chosen from these groups. Doris Zimmerman is accompanist for the girls and mixed choruses and Bryant Zimmerman is accompanist for the boys' group.

In the sub-district contest which will be held here on Saturday, April 3 the following numbers will be sung:

Girls: "Robin in the Rain," Cain; "Echo-Song," Harris.

Boys: "Passing By," Purchell; "Swabian Folk Song."

Mixed chorus: "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming," Praetorius; "Cherubim Song," Tschakowsky.

Mount Morris will act as the host school for representatives from the high schools of Ogle, Lee, Stephenson, Whiteside, Carroll, Jo where they visited with relatives.

Mrs. Andrew Drummond was a guest at the home of her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Evan Drummond and family at Evanston from Saturday until Monday.

Davies and Winnebago counties in the sub-district.

A group of the very-much-younger-set enjoyed a party at the M. C. Small home on Wesley avenue, last Thursday evening, in celebration of Tommy's fourth birthday. Supper was preceded by an hour of games. Ice cream and cake topped off a bounteous supper and was thoroughly enjoyed by the guests, who were Margaret Patton, Phyllis Van Stone, Carolyn Fiora, Allen Thomas, Jimmy Shook, Billy Patton, Donnie Riedl, Tommy Toms and Lorraine Loomis. No major casualties were reported and "a glad time was had by all."

GARDEN DEPENDS NO LONGER UPON BOXING MATCHES

Other Sports Aid In Maintaining Big Athletic House

By Alan Gould

New York, March 13.—(AP)—Attendance for professional boxing matches at Madison Square Garden has dropped over a ten-year period from a high mark of 422,900 in 1927 to 141,000 in 1936. This covers cash customers only.

Meantime, other sports promotions in the Garden, with the exception of six-day bike racing and professional wrestling, have shown some startling increase in popularity.

This, in the belief of Yale's gift to the Garden, President John Reed Kilpatrick, emphasizes that the big house Tex Rickard built no longer needs to rely on boxing to hold the financial fort.

Critics of the Garden's policy in general, or the tactics of its matchmaker, Jimmy Johnston, in particular, believe these factors have been more to blame for loss of prestige and profits than any decline in pugilism itself. It is obvious, of course, that a large slice of the boxing business has been cut by Mike Jacobs for the benefit of himself and his associates. Cauliflower Alley reports to the contrary, however, the Garden has not the slightest intention of abandoning or farming out its fistie interests.

One of the main reasons the Garden's directors are willing to ride out their current pugilistic storm is that the balance sheet shows more than $1,000,000 on the right side of the ledger.

Whatever the merits or demerits of the Garden policy, the fact remains, so far as the heavyweight situation is concerned, that the "house" assets now comprise chiefly (1) A dubious contract which Champion Jim Braddock openly has disregarded, and (2) A fast-moving young heavyweight named Bob Pastor, who gained distinction by lasting ten rounds in reverse with Joe Louis this winter.

BASS PLUGS AND HOW TO USE THEM

By Ben C. Robinson

Plug fishing for the small and large mouth bass is one of the most delightful of all forms of angling. Here we have the thrills of real fishing. The rise and take of the bait plainly to be seen in the majority of cases and when the water is at all clean and clear and the thrilling rush and battle to escape the clinging hooks. It is little wonder that plug casting for bass has taken such a strong and consistent hold on the American angler.

Surface Types of Plugs

One of the most thrilling and intriguing of all other forms of plug fishing for bass perhaps is that of casting for them with the floating or surface models of lure. This is not only a fascinatingly enjoyable means of fishing for the bass, but it is all well one of the most successful of all other methods. However, it must be practiced at the right season, in the proper waters and against the right kind of black bass. Big Mouth Bass seem to be more partial toward taking the surface plug than any of the others. This is true from the fact that the big mouth bass is more commonly found lurking about the shallow pad infested and weedy fringes of the lake coves and river bays than the more characteristically bottom-feeding small-mouth bass. Big Mouth Bass are very partial toward finding such foods as frogs, shrimp and minnows in the shore weeds and among the lily clusters and this naturally, brings them closer to the surface than when they feed deep among the submerged boulders and driftage on the bottom. Therefore the big-mouth bass in weedy and pad smeared lakes and river bends should be fished for with surface plugs, especially in the warmer weeks of the open season.

The floating plug is the best bid we have in the mid and late summer season. Even the semi-surface plug can be used to represent the float. It is not necessarily important that we have a strictly floating lure for this fishing. Just so that it is a plug that is intended to float when not being reeled. Most all our modern wooden plugs are made of buoyant wood and will float to surface when not being reeled. Cast the lure out to the spot where you believe the bass to be lurking or where it can be seen by a loafing fish under pad or weed shadow. Instead of reeling back immediately the plug has struck the water, just drop the tip of rod and permit the bait to pop up to the surface. Then the fishing really begins. With the left hand holding the rod so that the tip is slightly elevated and the right thumb and finger gripping the crank of the reel, jerk the rod tip upward and slightly sideways a few times to cause the bait to dance and bob about on surface. Not too strongly, understand, but so that it appears to be struggling to escape from the spot. Then, turn the reel handle and jerk the rod tip strongly to drip the bait under. Permit it to bob up again and so go through a series of these struggling, bobbing and diving movements with the bait out there at the edge of the pads, about a partially submerged sump in the shore weeds or alongside a windfall log that runs into deep lake water, and see if you don't draw the smashing, splashing rise of a fighting mad old big-mouth bass into the hooks.

The Floating Mouse, the Frog

finish and the Coaxer types of floating plug that can be found listed in all tackle catalogues and displayed on all sporting goods counters, are excellent floating types of bass plugs. Use these as I have outlined above and good will be sure to rise to them. However, if a true "Floated" model is not in the tackle box, then use one of the floating semi-surface wooden minnows or wooden plug models just as a floater might be used and the results will be just about as good.

Deep-Working Plugs

The deeper working plugs are best to use when the fish are lying down close toward bottom and feeding on crayfish or mudlure among the rocks and at edge of rocks and driftage. The semi-surface and the sinking models of plugs are the thing to use then. Reel them back straight and with a medium slow turning of the crank of reel. A small weight on line above plug is sometimes a help in this sort of bass plug fishing, so that the lure travel within two or three feet of the bottom where the bass can plainly see the wiggling, diving bait.

"Glad to see that for once you are on the side of the people."
To which Ashurst telegraphed: "My heart is always with the people, even if sometimes my vote is not."

Battling Quipster
As chairman of the Judiciary Committee, Ashurst will be floor manager of the President's court measure when it reaches the floor of the senate. And he will wage a shrewd and able fight, for he is an excellent parliamentary strategist.

While he will fight hard and cleverly, Ashurst won't get overwrought. He's not built that way. He never lets anything disturb him—not even his mail, which gives most Senators acute indigestion.

Asked by one worried colleague in 1935 as to how he was answering mail on three burning issues—the holding company bill, the bonus and the Townsend plan, Ashurst replied: "Oh, I have no trouble. I keep three boxes on my desk. One is marked Townsend, one Bonus and the third Utility. When I get letters on these subjects, I read them and then put them in the appropriate box."

"But how do you answer them?" "I don't," replied Ashurst. "I just leave them in the boxes."

Polished Speeches
Only one thing does the ineffable Arizona take seriously—if it can be characterized as such. This is his prepared speeches.

Over these he works with loving care and great pains—and a system. First he writes the speech for thought only. Then he goes over it with a thesaurus in hand, replacing staid adjectives and expressions with spectacular words and passages of wondrous hue. The finished product is something to marvel at. But even in his most purple passages, Ashurst is never the stuffed shirt. Witness the following explanation of why he somersaulted on the Supreme Court.

"There can be no doubt that I have my full share of faults. I suffer from caecothies, loquendi, a mania or itch for talking, and from vanity, if you please, and morbidity and, as is obvious to everyone who knows me, an inborn and inveterate flair for histrionics. But there has never been superadded to these vices of mine the withering and embalming vice of consistency."

NOW YOU CAN BUY OUR OWN HOME!

Recognizing the acute need for homes in Dixon with the establishment of the new J. I. Case Co. plant factory and the Freeman Shoe Co. factory here, which is already causing an expansion of population, the Home Lumber & Coal Co. is taking the initiative in the construction of a small home built at a price people can afford to pay.

Returning from a recent convention of the Illinois Lumber & Material Dealers Assn. at Chicago, Dement Schuler brings with him all details of the spring home building program which it is anticipated will give new impetus to the constantly growing prosperity of the nation in 1937.

"With government and industry cooperating to show that high grade, small homes can be built at prices people can afford to pay," says Mr. Schuler, "there will be practically no limit to the demand for such houses which will have to be met."

"The whole demonstration program is thoroughly worked out. A motion picture showing modern methods of construction is being shown at more than thirty industry conventions throughout the country this month. Models, designed to scale, show the finished houses to be most attractive. Plans have been approved by Federal Housing Administration for the modern form of financing, the long time "Insured Mortgage System."

"Three of the houses have been built near Washington, D. C., as a preliminary experiment with costs, labor, and materials. Each house is different, each is well planned and well built, and is charming and modern in detail, has modern kitchen, bath and basement, and ample cupboard space. The demand to buy these houses of the original demonstration exceeded all expectation."

Ground will be broken here and in the 1,000 demonstration cities on April 1 and it is hoped that many of these houses will be completed in time for a Grand National Opening, ready for public inspection on Saturday, May 1.

The Melloy Furniture Co. will also furnish the home as building progresses rapidly to completion in time for the national opening when the home will be open for public inspection.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAPHNE BRETT, charming young advertising executive, is in love with LARRY SMITH, architect. Daphne has one younger sister, JENNIFER.

Jennifer, seeing Daphne's attempts to guide her in her career. First, she dates TUCKER AINS-LEY, wealthy playboy, in defiance of Daphne. Next, she makes a play for Larry's affections. Thus a struggle develops between the sisters.

Meanwhile Larry proposes marriage to Daphne, but she tells him that she must wait. Her reason is that she feels her first duty is to Jennifer, to get her launched on a career. Larry, without knowing this, agrees to wait. Then Jennifer loses her job. And the next night she plans to elope with Tucker. But Daphne, learning of her plans, stops the marriage. Bitterly angry, Jennifer warns Daphne that "You'll be sorry you interfered with my love."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVI
"THE pattern calls for a blue band but I think I'd like it all white." Daphne held up an abbreviated bathing suit she was knitting. "Would you mind it being all white?"

Jennifer didn't look up from her book. "Does it make any difference what I think?"

"I should think it would since I'm making it for you. Or didn't you remember that June 20 is your birthday and June 20 is next week?"

"I'm surprised you didn't make me a pinafore," her sister retorted in the same cold tone that she had given Daphne these last three months.

Daphne put her knitting away. "Perhaps there is something else you'd prefer?" she proffered.

Jennifer smiled sweetly. "Why don't you forget it, Daphne? Why don't you leave me alone? You've gotten your way now. I've settled down to modeling at Tay-Jarrett." "Tay-Jarrett was a smart 57th street shop—I go to bed early and watch my diet. I don't go out with any wild people and I don't interfere in your life. Will that be enough?"

"No," Daphne answered, "it will not be. Darling, we can't live this way. For three months you've treated me as though you thoroughly disliked me. Surely you are intelligent enough to know that I would never hurt you, that I want to help you. I think you're taking a ridiculous attitude. After all, think what a mistake it would have been for you to marry Tucker. You couldn't have been very much in love with him to be over it so soon."

JENNIFER threw down her book and walked the length of the room two or three times. "Whether I happen to be in love or not in love with Tucker is no concern of yours. At least, he hasn't troubled you."

Or you either, Daphne might have said, since Tucker had taken himself off to California for "a short visit" three months ago and had not returned.

"Aren't you seeing a lot of Roy Trowbridge? I think he's very attractive."

"I'm not boy crazy," Jennifer said with dignity. "But you wouldn't understand that."

Patently, Daphne tried another tack. "What would you like to do during your two weeks off next month?"

Jennifer said, "Why I'd like to run over to Paris. What would you suggest?"

Unruffled, Daphne answered, "I was going to suggest that you accept Miriam Gatty's invitation to join her family on the Cape."

Miriam had been a classmate at Miss Maidstones.

"Certainly, I'll accept. And wear what? I haven't had a decent rag in a year and I'd need loads of sports clothes."

Daphne might have said that Jennifer had spent every cent of her generous salary on clothes. Instead she said, "I've a little money in the bank to be able to do very well on $200. Summer sports clothes don't cost very much. Suppose I keep the bathing suit and give you the trip?"

BEFORE Jennifer had a chance to answer, their doorbell sounded.

"That's Larry and he's early. The Stadium concerts start to-night and we want to get there early." Daphne got up to answer the bell.

Jennifer sighed and walked toward the bedroom. "Please don't go, Jennifer. It isn't necessary for you to run away when Larry comes."

"Who's running away?" Larry demanded.

"I was," Jennifer said, "Hello, Larry."

"Darling, will you find yourself a cigaret and amuse Jennifer for a few minutes? I've got to be domestic. Our maid didn't come today and the laundry is spread out all over my bed. I've got to put it away."

Larry gave a playful tug to Jennifer's golden hair. "Be a good little sister and give your big sister a break. Jennifer will do it, won't you?"

ROAD HOUSES

Dixon Evening Telegraph: I am glad for the straight-thinking, and courage of one of our supervisors, who, after much discussion by the other members of the county board, as to the road-house problem, made the lucid remark, "You can always vote a township dry if you want to."

If all our people could see, as this writer has been permitted to see, what these road-houses are doing to our young people, I'm sure there would not be one man or woman who wouldn't vote these "hell-holes" out of existence.

Thinking along the line of our young people, we are forced to admit that outside of our schools and churches, there is no place for supervised social contacts, which all young folk must have. "We keep up our fine lodges, but we allowed Guy Y. M. C. A. to go, due to lack of funds. We are promised a community house SOMETIME—but when? Other cities and towns smaller than Dixon maintain such places, where their youth may find clean recreation and amusement—why can't we?"

Let's think it over, and let's do more than think—let's act!

Signed

AUDITORIUM THEATRE

The famous Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, in the last weeks of its fourth annual tour of North America, will open another engagement at the Auditorium theatre in Chicago on Easter Sunday, March 28. The engagement is for five night performances, ending Thursday, April 1, and one matinee on Wednesday, March 31. After an engagement at the Metropolitan Grand Opera House in New York City the company then will sail for its annual summer engagements in Monte Carlo, Paris and London, including the official coronation performance at Covent Garden, with Great Britain's new King and Queen as the hosts.

Lovers of the drama, as well as of the greatest dancing in the world, are flocking to the performances, as they have discovered that the stories staged by the members of Colonel Wastly de Basil's international troupe are as thrillingly acted and as brilliantly presented as any offerings by regulation dramatic companies.

The same great repertoire of famous ballets that was staged at the Auditorium in the winter season of the company will be presented dur-

Jennifer's eyes called on Heaven to witness her plight. "Really," she said and picked up her book. "Would you like me to get out a broom too?"

Larry didn't answer her. He read his newspaper until Daphne, fresh and smart in a sheet tailored suit and small sailor, came into the room.

"Going out, Jennifer?" "I may." Still she didn't look up.

"I've misplaced my door key. Do you think you'll be here when I get back?"

"I haven't any idea."

Daphne turned away ashamed of her sister's rudeness, conscious of her own humiliation.

LATER, when it was intermission and she and Larry sat on the stone steps high in the Stadium, Larry pulled on his pipe and was silent.

But she was glad of the silence. Glad she wouldn't have to try to be gay. That would have been hard. She'd only been able to save $200 and now she was going to give it to Jennifer for a holiday. She had that to think about. She would never have enough money for the next egg she needed before she could marry Larry!

But if the holiday would help, would lift that unhappy veil that was between her and Jennifer, she offered it willingly.

Jennifer wired Daphne to meet her train at the end of the holiday. That small gesture was enough to send Daphne's hopes up.

Before she went to the train she ordered a supper of Jennifer's favorite foods.

The minute she saw Jennifer's face—so lovely, so sweet, so radiant—among the passengers alighting from the train, she knew that Jennifer's black mood was dispelled.

"I can't wait to tell you the news," Jennifer said. "You won't like it but you'll have to. Who do you think I met at Dennis? Gordon Herzberg, the great theatrical producer, and he's offered me a small part in a new production." She paused and again that corner of her mouth. "What are you going to do about it?"

"Do about it?" Daphne said, hugging her. "Darling, I'm going to coach you as soon as you get your lines. I'm thrilled to death. Have you forgotten that the theater was my first love?"

ing the coming engagement, and the same array of renewed artists will be seen, these including Leonide Massine, the maitre de ballet and artistic collaborator of the company, David Lichine, George Zoritch, Paul Petroff, Roman Jasinsky, Tamara Toumanova, Tatiana Riabouchinska, Irina Baronova, Alexandra Danilova, Tamara Grigorieva, Olga Morosova, Nina Verkhinina, Sono Osato and Lubov Rostova.

Mail orders are being received now. The sale of tickets at the theater will begin on March 14.

BETTER WORKMEN NEEDED FOR JOBS EMPLOYERS SAY

Wages Being Raised To Acquire More Skilled Help

Chicago, March 13.—(AP)—Quality, not quantity, is the employment problem in Illinois, a survey showed today.

"The trouble does not lie in scarcity of registrations for work," said Dr. A. H. R. Atwood, director of the Illinois state employment service,
"but in the capabilities of the applicants."

"While there is a decreasing number of registrations, we have an ample supply for the demand, but much of it is lacking in quality."

He referred to such work as domestic, farm hands, unskilled labor and odd jobs.

Because there is a need of "better types of workers," Dr. Atwood said wages were being increased. Reports of a shortage in available help were due to this, he said.

"Some employers refuse to pay more money to new workers and thus leave the jobs open longer, giving the impression there is no one to take the work," he said.

Qualified Workers Few
At Quincy, Miss Nellie M. Daniels, superintendent of the local state and United States employment office, said she was "unable to make placements due to shortage of qualified workers."

"We have been able to fill all requests for male farm help," she added, "but not for female workers.
Our rolls show there is still available an ample supply of unskilled workers. Our chief problem is to supply skilled workers, practically every manufacturer having openings for qualified men and women."

Miss Daniels said there was an "urgent demand" for domestics, especially qualified cooks. She reported receipt of 25 to 30 daily requests for domestic help.

A similar shortage of experienced domestic workers was reported at the Danville office of the Illinois free employment service. Wages were said to be the main factor in the scarcity.

Demand For Maids
The free employment bureau at Decatur reported a big increase in demand for full-time maids and domestic day-work.

Zerna Jackson, manager of the national re-employment service at Champaign, said "it is next to impossible to supply workers of certain classes." He reported unusual demands for farm workers, domestic service, cooks and waitresses, as well as additional workers in industrial plants and the crafts.

"Registrations of prospective employees have dropped more than 1,000 in the past year, particularly in the past few weeks," Jackson said. "Virtually all who have been assigned jobs through the NRA have been on the permanent basis."

A. J. Surratt, Federal and Illinois department of agriculture statistician at Springfield, said farm labor decreased three per cent in the year ending February 1 and predicted March 1 figures would show a greater decline. He said the east-central and northern sections of the state held their own, but inroads were made elsewhere.

"This slight reduction in hired labor is due to reduced crop production, in turn a result of drought," Surratt said.

The outside covering of a 20-year-old tree is the same as that which enclosed it as a 1-year-old sapling.
The cambium layer adds annual growths on the inner side, while the outer dark stretches and splits, to accommodate the increasing girth.

The earth's eastward rotation on its axis causes the celestial scenery to circle westward. Each night a lier than on the previous night.
